Travel essentials,
exactly when needed.

A discreet, self-service amenity designed for the modern hotel environment.

The Late-Night Gap

One-third of guests arrive having forgotten a key tech essential: chargers, adapters, cables, or headphones.

Often, these needs are only discovered late at night, well after local shops have closed and when your front desk is at its busiest.

A small problem, Repeated Daily

- Staff left with limited options to help.
- Persistent late-night requests at reception.
- Guests forced to leave the property in search of basics.
- Small frustrations that impact the guest experience.

The Solution

A quiet, self-service alternative.

Guests select, pay, and continue their stay.
